#INHWEDublin2026 Call for Abstracts

Hello again INHWE Members! We are delighted to announce that the Call for Abstracts for the 6th International Congress of Health Education and Research is now open!

Our next flagship annual event will take place in Dublin, Ireland, on Wednesday 7 October and Thursday 8 October 2026, bringing together international health workforce educators, researchers, and policy makers to share insights, build connections, and strengthen interdisciplinary collaboration across the sector. In Dublin, one of the main features will be the Final Conference of the ECHOES Project (Exchange of Expertise in Healthcare Professionals' Education) to be held as a demonstration event within the congress programme. We invite authors to submit abstracts on the main congress theme or on any of the related sub-themes across healthcare education, training, and workforce development. Researchers, educators, and practitioners can submit either a "classic" academic abstract or a short paper through our submission system. To find out more and read the full call, please click the button below.

Congress Theme: "Innovating Together - the Future of IPE"

Innovating together in interprofessional education (IPE) is essential to prepare the healthcare workforce for a rapidly evolving and increasingly complex care environment. The future of IPE relies on cultivating creativity, adaptability, and forward-thinking collaboration across health disciplines. Innovation in this context means reimagining traditional approaches to education, integrating emerging technologies, and fostering new models of teamwork that address both current and future health challenges. By working together in innovative ways, healthcare professionals can break barriers between disciplines, expand perspectives, and create more dynamic learning experiences. This approach not only strengthens interprofessional collaboration but also ensures that learners are equipped to deliver patient-centered, equitable, and sustainable care. Looking ahead, innovating together in IPE empowers healthcare teams to adapt to change, embrace diversity of thought, and co-create solutions that improve health outcomes for individuals, families, and communities worldwide.
