

International Network for Health Workforce Education

Newsletter

Webinar: When the Wind Turns Toxic

Hello again INHWE Members! The EU Health Policy Platform, in collaboration with the European Respiratory Society, is hosting a live webinar titled “When the Wind Turns Toxic: Climate, Dust Storms and Lung Health” on 15 October 2025, from 16:00 to 17:00 CEST. The event will address the growing public health challenge of dust storms and their impact on respiratory health in the context of climate change and rising extreme weather events. The agenda includes presentations from leading experts followed by a Q&A session and concluding remarks. The webinar, held in English, is open for registration and is produced by the European Respiratory Society. This discussion also resonates with INHWE’s commitment to the One Health approach, recognizing the interconnection between human, environmental, and animal health in addressing complex global challenges like dust storms and climate change. Register by clicking below.

Webinar Registration

David Smith

Director

Visit Our Website