National Pilots for the H-Pass Project Nearing Completion

Hello again INHWE Members! The H-PASS project is nearing the end of its pilot phase across partner countries, marking key progress in equipping healthcare professionals with vital digital and transversal skills needed for modern healthcare. The pilot has successfully tested and refined the training program, focusing on bridging technology and human-centered care. In the coming months, the project will evaluate participant feedback, enhance course materials, and adapt content to local healthcare systems. These efforts will prepare H-PASS for broader implementation, aiming to build a resilient, future-ready healthcare workforce capable of navigating digital transformation across Europe.
