

H-Pass Update

Hello again INHWE Members! We like to provide you with a quick update on our EU funded research project: H-Pass. During the last consortium meeting, INHWE had the opportunity to present the results of its country and EU wide desk based research task. The country surveys revealed the situation in Cyprus and the wider continent concerning digital skills training for healthcare professionals. While there are many programmes for the general population, there are not many for healthcare professionals specifically. We are looking forward to discussing potential teaching topics with our partners and starting to build up the training programme.

This background research will form the bases for our training programme and one task INHWE has been charged with is to find similar training programmes and identify good practices. We have found several good practices that we will have in mind while creating our training programme. Videos, quizzes, academic literature, evaluating plans, simulations, and trainer's manual are just some of them. We are also considering the best methods to include VR and AR because of their abilities to create a helpful and an engaging way of learning. Virtual patients could also be used to help the trainees get accustomed to different medical situations.
