1. Project Description

SimPRENA is a 2-year project led by Munster Technological University (MTU) which aims to address a critical need within healthcare education: preparing nursing and paramedic students to navigate the challenges of a violent healthcare environment with confidence and competence. Aggression and violence towards medical staff are pressing concerns that jeopardize both patient and staff safety. By providing simulation-based training, this project seeks to bridge the gap between theory and practice, empowering students and educators alike to effectively handle real-life scenarios. Most importantly, SimPRENA aims to foster a safe learning environment where students and trainers alike can develop essential clinical and decision-making skills.

2. The e-learning Platform

The main output of SimPRENA is the project's e-learning platform, a distinctive and engaging virtual environment that we hope will enable target groups (primarily nursing and paramedic students and their educators, together with trainers and simulation experts from health organisations dealing with the safety of healthcare workers) to acquire new skills and competences for preventing and resisting violent behaviours such as physical/verbal aggressions towards medical staff in the healthcare settings.

The platform's core consists of multiple actor-led videos that highlight particular topics, behaviours, and situations. Users will be able to virtually experience a particular scene through the films, which will be further improved by extra training materials, quizzes, and comments. These are built as a web-based application delivering all the required functionalities so that it will match the needs of the users.

The platform is currently undergoing small-scale piloting to assess its feasibility and effectiveness before its official launch in Dublin and large-scale rollout.

3. Conference Agenda

The main aim of SimPRENA project is to develop simulation scenarios and training materials tailored to the specific needs of nursing and paramedic students. By providing simulation-based training, this project seeks to empower students and educators alike to effectively handle real-life scenarios and navigate the challenges of a violent healthcare environment with confidence and competence. The Conference will provide an overview and demonstration of the SimPRENA platform and discuss the challenges and opportunities of simulation-based education with an international panel of speakers. At the end of the Conference, all delegates are cordially invited to join the Speakers for a networking lunch at the Conference venue.

4. Target Audience

The Final Conference will be held in the final months of the project and will give project partners the chance to disseminate findings to key stakeholder groups. The event will be provided as a half day interactive meeting which will comprise 30 key stakeholders involved in the education and training of healthcare professionals in multiple specialties along with key policy makers and all consortium partners.

The following invitation was sent to the relevant members of the INHWE in preparation for the event:

Invitation: SimPRENA Project Final Conference in Dublin on 26th November 2025

Dear INHWE Members and Friends,

I am delighted to extend to you an invitation to our upcoming event, the Final Conference of SimPRENA Project, taking place on Wednesday 26th November 2025 in the grounds of the RCSI School of Nursing and Midwifery in Dublin, Ireland.

The main aim of SimPRENA project is to develop simulation scenarios and training materials tailored to the specific needs of nursing and paramedic students. By providing simulation-based training, this project seeks to empower students and educators alike to effectively handle real-life scenarios and navigate the challenges of a violent healthcare environment with confidence and competence. The Conference will provide an overview and demonstration of the SimPRENA platform and discuss the challenges and opportunities of simulation-based education with an international panel of speakers. At the end of the Conference, all delegates are cordially invited to join the Speakers for a networking lunch at the Conference venue.

Attendance to the event is kindly offered by our local hosts in Dublin and the EACEA of the European Union. Due to health and safety reasons, we must arrange our participants' list on a first come first served basis. To reserve your seat, you're kindly asked to register online.

Conference Page and Registration: <https://inhwe.org/simprena-final-conference>

Conference Venue: RCSI, 123 St Stephen's Green, Dublin 2, Ireland

We hope to meet many of you in Dublin next month and we believe that your presence will be of great interest to our project partners, the conference host and all delegates attending the event. I remain at your disposal for further information.

Best Regards,

Matteo Vezzosi

Director of Events and Communications | International Network for Health Workforce Education

The response to the invitations was positive and the target of registering 30 people was reached within a few days, proving the great interest in the project's results and the added value represented by the collaboration between the consortium and RCSI Faculty of Nursing and Midwifery.

6. Networking Lunch

The catering company at RCSI will be asked to provide the following service:

Coffee Break

Coffee & tea & homemade cookies

Networking Lunch

Mixed bread sandwiches and wraps

Chicken skewers, tempura prawn, spring rolls

Seasonal fruit bowl

Still and Sparkling Water

Tea & Coffee

The order will be placed two weeks prior to the event depending on the final list of participants and the budgeted expenses for the event.

7. Conference Evaluation

An online conference evaluation survey will circulate after the event to gather feedback from attendees and help the team improve future events. The online survey aims to cover conference content, logistics, and overall experience and will include a mix of answer choice types e.g. multiple choice and open-ended questions.
